Gary,

Will we still have one more happy year of school fun for which I am glad, because after graduation some you never see again.

I'm sure we'll have fun next year and the very best luck to you.

Gary,
You are the greatest and deserve the best. I know you'll be a success in everything you set before you. It's been fun working with you and I am looking forward to next year - remember the fun with the work.

Who Among Us Needs No Memory?

Who among us can recapture from a printed page the frenzied excitement of a basketball tournament, or the laden hours spent whittling on mountainous homework, or the enthusiastic response to the call of class leaders, or the cloak of newly-found poise so evident on genteel Prom night, or the Cheshire-grin eclipsing all else when the coveted honor roll is attained—who among us can recapture all this from a printed page without the aid of the light of memory, filling in the shadows of incompleteness?

To stimulate recollections of the minutiae of our school year—nine months so colorfully packed with dramatic events—mementos in words and pictures have been preserved in the pages of our yearbook.

But these notes merely hint at the whole story. Memory quickly rescues us from the obscurity of time as, thumbing through the treasury that is our Cantonian, we set out upon the pleasant task of remoulding our by-gone experiences in all their beauty and dignity!

STUDENT LIFE

Are these the "Good Ol' Days"?

Somewhere many years from now, perhaps tucked away in an obscure corner, we may come upon a sheaf of papers with a few seemingly nondescript articles scotch-taped on yellowed pages—this we fondly refer to as our scrapbook.

Thumbing through this souvenir of the "good ol' days," our minds may quickly journey back to the "best years of our lives." Yes, there it is on page one: a rather tattered dance program from the "Stork Club!" Beneath it is a clipping from the Canton Daily Ledger which reads, "Canton Loses to East Peoria in Homecoming Tussle!" And there's an old Pennant with headlines blazing. Pressed between two pages we may find a corsage or boutonniere carefully preserved from Hop night. And perhaps on the last page is a nostalgic reminder of May 31st—the "Order of Exercises" for Graduation.

Such treasured items may prompt us to turn again to our well-worn Cantonians to relive a few moments of our student days!

Spring Elections

SHREWD ELECTIONEERING TACTICS EMPLOYED BY CANDIDATES FOR STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICES

Registration requirements are satisfactorily completed before casting ballots by Roger Motsinger, Eddie Gardner, Jerry Gibbons, Jack Dowell, and Larry Sepich.

Through the window the camera catches Carol Raskauskas and Marilyn Auld marking their "secret" ballots. A primary had eliminated all but two candidates for each office.

"And I promise that if I'm elected . . ." Candidates for Student Council offices uneasily faced the student body on April 11th, 1956, and proclaimed in convincing fashion the advantages of their election.

Preceding this rally, catchy campaign slogans and clever cartoons had intensified the atmosphere of a political campaign.

Verbally exchanging blow for blow, Chet Carrara and Larry Craig fought for the presidency, while Lance Lindeen and Bill Schrodtt sparred for vice-president. Judy Barker and Carolyn Shallenberger battled for the office of secretary, and, racing for treasurer, Alice Hensler and Marietta Welch competed for the enviable job of handling money. Now, clutching the rostrum for needed support, the eager campaigners hopefully solicited coveted votes.

The next day, as voters milled around the secretive booths, the lobby presented a scene of bustling activity! Booth curtains flapped tirelessly as the electors "X"ed their favorites.

The ballot box disgorged its contents and the returns were announced! Chet, Bill, Judy, and Marietta had been selected to guide our Council through 1956-1957!

Registrars Elaine Eager, Rodger Murphy, and Sharon Bath check records to authenticate voting privilege of applying students. The privilege was exercised by 75% of the eligible voters.

In a dynamic campaign speech, Marietta Welch extols her qualifications for the office of Student Council Treasurer. Alice Hensler, Carolyn Shallenberger, and Judy Barker nervously await their turn. Each candidate for office was required to explain his platform to the student assembly.

"Spectacular!" is the word describing the 1956 Junior-Senior Prom! Crowds of admiring friends and relatives crammed into the high school auditorium to witness the traditional Grand March. Led by the class officers, the march moved beneath a fern-flanked, black and white canopy as mellow strains set the tempo. The girls, on the arms of their trim and handsome escorts, were gracefully gowned in a galaxy of softly flowing formals, while the boys, in dinner jackets and suits, appropriately complimented the formal atmosphere.

Passing through the auditorium, couples promenaded to the ballroom where they found themselves in a glittering replica of the world-famous Stork Club. A skyline view of New York after dark provided an authentic background for the cozy tables circling the dance floor. A ceiling of graceful black and white streamers were swept back, revealing a top hat and forming a backdrop for the orchestra. The dancers swayed to the soft, subtle rhythm of Fred Hess' orchestra as a multicolored spotlight played over them in a pale ray of rainbow hues. Punctuating the evening's entertainment, the "Epics," the orchestra's quartet, were enthusiastically applauded by the Prom-goers.

Prom

Carol Rainey and Lance Lindeen share a happy moment during their big evening at the "Stork Club."

In the lobby, night clubbers lounged in comfortable sofas and chairs and viewed television. Occasionally couples would saunter into the auditorium where pictures were being taken by the Cantonian photographers.

At midnight, their appetites whetted by whirling gaily to the Prom-perfect music, the couples eagerly entered the softly glowing dining room.

Accenting the snowy white linen on each table were tall, slender candles rising from delicate, rambling fernery and pastel tissue flowers.

In this setting was served steaming baked ham, mashed potatoes with creamy gravy, tender green beans, crisp tossed salad, and hot buttered rolls, topped off with pie à la mode. The Prom-goers, with a look of satisfaction on their faces, filed into the auditorium for "real cool" entertainment.

First on stage was local talent featuring peppy song and dance numbers by two talented youngsters, Joann Marshall and Susie Entraner; comic pantomimes, highlighted by an old fashioned barbershop quartet, staged by the Lions Club; an audience participation quiz show with Reverend William Toland acting as moderator; and pop songs by alumnus Alan Morkoski. Demonstrations by the Arthur Murray Dancers of Peoria put a finishing touch to this hour of entertainment.

THE NATIONAL BANK OF CANTON

An ovation shook the auditorium as Art Hodes and his Hi-Fivers appeared for a repeat performance of New Orleans jazz at our Prom! As the tempo of the music mounted, the crowd pressed toward the stage, rocking and clapping with the beat. To Art Hodes' version of "The Saints," the entranced couples followed the Hi-Fivers in Pied Piper fashion up the aisles out of the auditorium, through the lobby, up the steps to the balcony, and back again! Encouraged by the demand for encore after encore, the Hi-Fivers continued the jam session for a half hour beyond their scheduled time, to the utter delight of their 4 a. m. audience!

The expended couples then trooped into the cafeteria to revive their energy with cool glasses of golden orange juice, sweet rolls, and refreshing milk.

As the blackness of the night yielded and the first rays of dawn swelled from the horizon, drowsy couples reluctantly bade farewell to their Stork Club with memories of the dazzling evening impressed indelibly on their hearts!

Passing under the Stork Club Canopy, couples leave the Prom, exuberant over a night filled with many thrilling moments.

Dancing to the 1956 Sophomore Hop's romantic theme, "Moonlight Serenade," are Barbara Browning and John Hogan, Barbara Smith and Joe Stone, and Virginia Shaw and Jeff Swan.

Destined weeks before to surpass all previous class works, the 1956 Sophomore Hop truly fulfilled all expectations! Displaying ingenious adaptability, the students skillfully executed the seemingly simple yet troublesome theme, Moonlight Serenade. Behind the scenes, however, the hand-wringing decoration committee experienced eleventh-hour anxiety and confusion when the "moon," a huge orange balloon to set the mood for the whole occasion, failed to arrive, forcing last minute revision of plans!

That night, nevertheless, the unsuspecting couples, fascinated by the sublime magic of the evening's excitement, danced to the mellow strains of Moonlight Serenade with imagination satisfactorily supplying the fugitive moon!

Throughout the evening, the dancers were drawn toward an attractively decorated table where they were served party cookies, hors d'oeuvres, and beverages. Punctuating this refreshing snack, the evening's especial entertainment, including several enticing vocal and dance selections plus an acrobatic routine, was presented to the captivated hop-goers.

The last minute scuttled plans may soon fade from grinning memory but the class will long recall the success of their first major venture into the senior high school social world!

Culminating the Seniors' school career, graduation was held on May 31, 1956, in the high school auditorium. Robert Jamieson, former dean at the College of Commerce at Bradley University, delivered the address, after which diplomas were presented by Gale Stevens, vice-president of the Board of Education. Valedictorian Sharon Collins won the Van B. Eyerly Scholarship and Michael Svob, the U. G. Orendorff Scholarship. Patricia Eager was salutatorian.

Homecoming

AN ONSLAUGHT OF CHOICE ACTIVITIES MARKED THE EXHILERATING 1956 HOMECOMING CELEBRATION

"Watch out for flying nuts and bolts!" Pat Hamilton and George Fisher clatter along the parade route with reckless abandon in their wheezing Chevrolet.

Converging under a flame-licked sky, pajama-clad celebrants romped giddily around the snapping, crackling bonfire to open 1956 Homecoming festivities!

Responding like a circus band to the cheerleaders' baton, they bellowed heated yells before abandoning the glowing embers and winding their way in an undulating stream to the Square, where there were more cheers mixed with honking horns!

On to the Hi-Y bop dance! Enthusiasm intensified as thoughts of the coming day crowded out more serious concerns.

Friday found loyal club members desperately hammering on floats and rehearsing skits, while academic pursuits competed in vain for attention.

Students then poured into the auditorium, discovering the stage to be a huge T.V. set. Emcee Bucky Turl focused on a variety of entertainment, highlighted by Jim "Elvis" Yerbic's "Don't Be Cruel."

Spurred to eloquence by exuberant cheering, Coach Macklin and the team addressed the student body in confident hopefulness for the outcome of the game.

Tense silence fell over the audience as Bucky and Karen Marshall stalled, but the announcement finally came . . . King Chet Carrara and Queen Janice Johnson would reign!

Heralding the approach of the 1956 Homecoming Parade the high-stepping Canton band leads the long line of decorated cars and floats down First Avenue.

"Our team's so hot the field's on fire!" yells volunteer fireman Betty Bliesener in answer to Janice Johnson's inquiry during the Homecoming Assembly.

Coach Macklin assures the student body that the football team will make an all-out effort to add a victory to the Homecoming festivities.

Around 4:15 beating drums brought people to their porches and shoppers to the curbs as the band, marching in their familiar green and gold uniforms, led the Homecoming Parade through the autumn, leaf-littered streets. The long line of colorful floats and decorated cars passed down spectator-lined First Avenue, rounded the crowded Square, and returned—a total distance of one-and-a-half miles.

The Cantonian Staff float, "It Pays To Support The Team," won the "Most Original" award. In the same classification, second place went to the Biology Club's "Let's Rack Them." The Pep Club's entry, a huge purple and white panda bear, was judged the "Most Attractive," while the Spanish Club was runner-up with its cleverly displayed Mexican bull. The Thespians had the best decorated car, "Drag On To Victory."

King Chet Carrara and Queen Janice Johnson reign over festivities at the Homecoming Dance. Members of the royal court, Larry Craig and Pat Kuchan, stand by.

The referee's shrill whistle signaled the kick-off. Cheers broke from the crowd as the pigskin soared through the air . . . and suddenly we had recovered an East Peoria fumble, then rambled 43 yards for a touchdown! At half-time, confident and sensing victory, even though the score was tied, we watched a colorful show performed by the band. Remember the last desperate moments of the contest? Amidst frantic cheering our spirited team tried but failed to block the losing touchdown—final score, 14-7. Downhearted, we nevertheless hurried to the dance feeling the game had been well played.

Entering the gym the night of the Homecoming Dance was like waltzing into a moonlit field scattered with golden cornshocks. A wistful, harvest moon shone down as we danced to mellow music. We shall never forget the excitement as alumni, students and faculty members made way for the royal procession! We watched proudly as Queen Janice Johnson and King Chet Carrara regally ascended their thrones. It was then that we Seniors found ourselves with the sinking feeling that next year we would be among the alumni!

The Cantonian Staff float, proclaiming that "It Pays to Support the Team," carried off first prize for originality.

Thespians copped first prize in the decorated car division with their slogan "Drag on to Victory."

Future Homemakers of America, exchanging aprons for formals, added to the attractiveness of the Homecoming Parade.

Senior Class Play

"A MAN CALLED PETER" GAVE SENIOR
THEATRICAL ASPIRANTS A CHANCE TO TRY THEIR ACTING SKILLS

Janice Nagel, portraying a strongly opinionated spinster of Peter Marshall's congregation, attacks the minister's practices as her sister (Anne Schwerer) watches with temerity.

"A Man Called Peter," a drama illustrating the strength found in God by Reverend Peter Marshall, was presented by the Senior Class on November 16.

After four weeks of rehearsals, last minute touches were applied to make-up before the call—"Places everybody!"

The curtain parted to the singing of the Scottish ballad, "Loch Lomond." Now it was the Seniors' opportunity to prove that a professional performance can be given by a high school group.

The brief hours passed quickly as the actors vividly portrayed the real life characters of Peter Marshall and his associates.

As the strains of "Loch Lomond" were again heard, the uplifting experience was brought to a close.

Dann Fidler, playing the part of a young man dominated by his spinster aunt, seeks advice from his minister (Charles Shaw).

In his dual role as play director and make-up artist, Mr. Charles Walker coaches Charles Shaw while drawing wrinkles to create the illusion of an older man.

Many cross-plots created an interesting and fast-moving play. The Marshall family, composed of Peter, Catherine and Peter-John, seemed always ready to assist in the problems of others, although themselves confronted by many hardships.

Judith Bickle, villainess par excellence, admirably succeeded in making life unbearable, not only for the Marshalls but also for her nephew, Allan Talbot, and her introvert sister, Jessie.

Because of the Grants' unhappy marriage, their daughter, Susan, dubiously considered immediate marriage to her fiancé, George Youst.

Joe Keating, an underprivileged orphan fallen into bad company, was restored to good citizenship by Senator Polk.

Although at first a sad outcome was visible, an inevitably happy ending ensued.

SENIORS PLAYED HOST TO THE JUNIORS AT THE THANKSGIVING EVE FETE IN THE ELKS' BALLROOM

Senior-Junior Hop

The softly illuminated Elks' Ballroom was the scene of one of the two most prominent social events of the year—"Some Enchanted Evening." Black and white ribbons, suspended from the ceiling in graceful columns, swayed with the churned air as couples danced.

Flanked by leafy ferns, Billy Williams' Orchestra blended multifarious tones into harmonious tunes, setting a suave, romantic mood for the evening. In contrast to this, carefree dancers periodically dropped their sophistication and flung aside their shoes for a limbering and pulse-quickenning sock "Bop." From time to time, energies waning, couples strolled to a silver and white table, where they were refreshed with dainty party cookies and tangy punch.

Too soon "Goodnight Sweetheart" signaled the end of the revelry. Inspired Class planning had resulted in a Senior-Junior Hop we shall long remember!

David Breedlove and Judy Barker exchange comments about the success of the Thanksgiving Eve affair with Superintendent L. E. Starke.

Dancing to the rhythmic strains of Billy Williams' Orchestra Sara Jarnagin and Wilbur Maricle, Mary Anne Lutz and Bucky Turl, and Peggy VanMiddlesworth and Glenn Richard enjoy their "enchanted evening."

As Ronald Newton and Wilbur Maricle trade secrets, Sara Jarnagin and Barbara Martin dumbfound Charles Shaw by discussing the latest fashions.

Looking forward to a gala evening as guests of the Senior Class are Juniors Pat Munson and Kent DeFord and Anne Shepley and escort.

 SCRIPPS-McCARTNEY CO. and GRANDMOTHERS CLUB

Miscellany

Voted by the students and faculty to receive the D.A.R. Awards for their scholarship, leadership, and citizenship are Seniors Bill Schrodt and Alida Snyder.

With a variety of special events available, all students were able to enjoy some expression of student genius.

Entertainment and education for the students was presented in one form as assembly programs by our student council. These were anticipated and accepted with much enthusiasm by both the students who took part in them and those who witnessed them.

The social life of the students was varied by school clubs, which provided after-game dances, banquets and parties, hayrack rides, wiener roasts, and picnics. Loyal members took part in the production of these lively activities.

Honors were given to deserving pupils via either the votes of fellow classmen and faculty or the passing of tedious examinations.

A number of individual athletes achieved outstanding individual success during the year, although team records, as a whole, were dismal.

It would be difficult to attain by any other means the important role these extracurricular activities play in the lives of students.

Trying to gain two points by escaping from his opponent's hold, John Morrell displays the ability that sent him to the state wrestling meet.

Talking over their plans for the holidays during the intermission of the Student Council Christmas Dance are Kay Tuttle, Bill Evans, Dianne Eshelman, and Dick Wulf.

A tense moment in the play is when Helen Hudson (Pat Rusnak), Perry, the handy man (Roland Meade), and Monty Brent (John Henseler) hear the shocking news of Dr. Hudson's death. Unaware of this tragedy, Martha, the maid (Iona Wheeler), Joyce Hudson (Barbara Smith), Mrs. Ashford (Barbara Browning), and Bobby's companion (Bob Dorothy) administer aid to the half drowned Bobby Merrick (Kenny Allaman).

Junior Class Play

JUNIORS GAVE SENSITIVE TREATMENT TO LLOYD DOUGLAS' POWERFUL DRAMA
"MAGNIFICENT OBSESSION"

Standing in the wings, Miss Daisy Coty vicariously lives the moving play which she directed.

Uncovering a variety of hidden talents, the Junior Class on February 16 produced Lloyd C. Douglas' outstanding three-act play, "Magnificent Obsession." The play illustrates how a young woman thrown into despair over the avoidable death of her doctor husband overcame her hate for the man responsible for his death.

With only three short weeks in which to prepare, the class plunged into the momentous task of casting. Immediately the monotonous process of studying lines and repetitious rehearsals eclipsed school routine.

The patio of a fashionable, lake-side home provided the setting, realistically created by the stage crew. Ticket selling, programs, make-up, costuming, sound effects, and publicity all required special committee attention.

With the usual difficulties overcome in the nick of time, the night of presentation arrived with hair-splitting timeliness. The audience was astounded by the quality of the characterizations achieved in so short a time. The grueling hours spent in preparing may be forgotten, but the pleasant thought of a tremendous success will remain forever!

ADMINISTRATION and FACULTY

Is Unused Knowledge Better than None?

There is no "one way" to teach; each faculty member must apply the basic theories of education to his own teaching field, taking full advantage of his own unique characteristics.

A teacher's approach to education is two-fold. He must first guide his students toward the immediate objectives of his course, and at the same time stimulate and encourage them to continue in their quest for knowledge and to apply it to situations encountered in everyday living. Knowledge that is not used is the same as no knowledge at all. Teachers aim to direct the classroom activities of students in such a way that what they learn from textbooks will be of value not only in the classroom but also in life situations that may arise.

Teachers regard each student as a whole personality; schools exist primarily to mould the learning processes of young people, but educators cannot overlook the emotional outlook, physical development, social adjustment, cultural attitude, and personal problems of each individual.

PRINCIPAL ALVIN FELTS

SUPERINTENDENT L. E. STARKE

Superintendent and Principal

Dean of students, Mr. Albert Millington, exercises his duty of advising students as he explains results of Freshmen vocational tests to Terry Scalf.

Among his first year accomplishments as Superintendent of Canton schools, L. E. Starke established an Advisory Council, observed instruction in every classroom in the system, and addressed numerous civic organizations—all of this in an effort to acquaint himself with both our school system and our community. Mr. Starke must show unprejudiced interest in all schools under his jurisdiction, must be poised in the role of public speaker, and must manifest genuine friendliness toward the people with whom he comes in daily contact.

Principal Alvin Felts, associated with our school for the past twenty-five years, has a two-fold responsibility. He must first of all encourage the faculty to create in their classrooms an atmosphere conducive to learning, and then incite in the students a desire to learn. By coordinating these two, atmosphere and desire, he is helping us move toward our common goal—successful education.

Board of Education

PRESIDENT GALE STEVENS
VICE-PRESIDENT ORAL STRODE
MR. WILLIAM FINK
SECRETARY ROBERT WELCH
DR. WILLISON TAYLOR

Responsibilities weigh heavily on the shoulders of the District 66 Board of Education. Writing the rules and regulations governing the system, employing efficient personnel, keeping complete records, and supervising improvements are just a few of their duties. The school board has, as their main accomplishment of the year, engaged Mr. L. E. Starke as the Superintendent, replacing Mr. Ben Kietzman. Many men were interviewed for the position. All were carefully sifted through and the capable Mr. Starke emerged as the most outstanding applicant. Policies designed to improve the system as a whole have been formulated and carried out by Mr. Starke and the school board during his first year.

Among the board's plans for the future is the forthcoming grade school in Banner. With the increase in school enrollment, the planning for more rooms and teachers is a tough problem requiring their constant attention. To have any meaning, their plans must be and are translated into effective action that yield tangible results.

Continually working for the betterment of the school system, the school board has a monthly meeting to discuss phases of our education.

Specials

Miss Mary Danner, Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburk, Mr. John Ronketto, Jr., Mr. Fred Benson, Mrs. Wayne Fisher, Mr. Wayne Fisher, Miss Daisy Coty, listen attentively as Homemaking instructor Miss Opal O'Brien gives a few household tips to the newly married couple, the Fishers.

Taking time out from chatting, Principal Alvin Felts, Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburk, Miss Daisy Coty, Mrs. Gladys Crouch, Mr. Robert Zeigler, Miss Helen Jameson, and Miss Opal O'Brien sample the tasty delicacies at the faculty Christmas Tea.

Caught in the act of cleaning up after the faculty Christmas Tea, Coach Leroy Macklin and Mr. Harry Stone pause in a slightly startled manner, as Miss Marjory Anders works doggedly on.

There is no routine in a routine day at the office. Like Topsy, it just grows.

Principal Alvin Felts opens up around 7:30. Bright "good-mornings" are exchanged as Miss Mary Danner and Miss Maralee Murphy arrive. The long, deserted hallways are quickly filled with cheerful chatter as students gather, and the office is besieged with requests for excuses.

As the day wears on, the secretaries are kept hopping—typing letters, cutting stencils, operating the switchboard, sorting mail, completing reports, recording attendance, receiving salesmen, issuing passes for tardiness, dispensing miscellaneous information, ad infinitum.

At 3:05 the long corridors are suddenly alive and bustling and just as suddenly are again strangely silent and deserted. At 4:00 the office counter is closed, the switchboard is set for night service, and the two secretaries wearily wave "Good-byes."

The hot summer months find Miss Danner, Miss Murphy, and Mr. Felts steaming through the tedious task of coordinating class schedules for the coming term.

Routine? What's that?

Mr. Walter Brashear, new band director, skillfully guides his pupils through another melodious half-time.

CLASSES

Which Came First, the Individual or Group?

What do you think of when you hear the word, "class"?

One picture is that of the class groups, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior, binding their energies together in one sheaf—the Student Body—in order to realize collective goals. This cohesive action is evident in the willingness of the student body to cooperate in student control ventures, to go all out in athletic contests, and to keep the school spirit buoyant, but not out of hand.

Another picture is that of groups acting separately. Class plays are outstanding examples of creative activity. Seniors entertain Juniors at the autumn Hop, while in the Spring the Seniors appear on the Juniors' guest list for the Prom. Sophomores, looking ahead to when they reach upperclass status, experiment with their own Sophomore Hop.

Finally, we think of the individual class member, whose need for education justifies the very existence of the school. It is the individual, always, around whom activity revolves. If he becomes lost, the school is lost.

Class of 1957

SENIORS WIND UP SCHOOL CAREERS IN A DIZZYING WHIRL OF SCHOLASTIC AND SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

When Graduation Day is over and we Seniors prepare for college or plan to make our own way in the world, we realize how rapidly our high school career has come to a close!

Looking over the past year, crammed with memorable events, we first recall Homecoming—the humorous and fast moving assembly program, the exhausting ordeal of building and decorating the floats, the excitement of the nearly-won game, and finally, a romantic evening of dancing beneath a golden harvest moon!

Next was the festive Hop on Thanksgiving Eve, when we Seniors played host to our Junior classmates.

Then came the really big social event of the year—our turn to be feasted and entertained by the Junior class—the glorious all-night 1957 Prom!

Our thoughts are filled with these memories and many more as, with mixed emotions, we file down the aisle at Graduation, closing one, but beginning a new epoch, teeming with promise and challenge!

BETTY BULL

That the scourge of premature death is eventually doomed is the promise of advances already made. Progress feeds on itself. Would it not be fitting if a classmate of one so struck down should discover the secrets behind the mysterious ills of mankind?

LT. JOHN ELLISON

Many centuries ago Cicero cited a great truth when he said, "No one could ever meet death for his country without the hope of immortality." Those who have made this supreme sacrifice will indeed live on in the hearts of their indebted countrymen.

Junior Class advisers Marjory Anders and Harry Stone compare notes on the Juniors' progress in plans for the Prom.

Class of 1958

Benefiting from their Sophomore experiences and mistakes, the Junior Class faced squarely their newly acquired responsibilities: a Junior Class play to produce, Student Council positions to fill, and an original Prom to plan.

After two weeks of rugged rehearsals "getting into character," the beautifully staged and inspiring play, Magnificent Obsession, was performed before an enraptured audience. While holding their own academically, class members found time for vigorous participation in other extra-curricular activities.

Juniors worked diligently to raise funds for the 1957 all-night Prom, destined to take its place in the annals of great school events.

Teamwork was the key, unlocking the door of achievement with promise of great things to come!

Secretary Peg VanMiddlesworth, Treasurer Glenn Richard, President Gary Peterson, and Vice-President Pat Rusnak hash out pros and cons of early plans for the 1957 Prom.

Row 1—Gary Adams, Kenneth Allaman, Shirley Allaman, Sharon Arnett
 Row 2—Sherry Bamford, Ruth Barnett, Russell Baxter, Lowell Bell
 Row 3—Jim Bernard, Patricia Betz, Ethan Blackaby, Robert Boughan

Class of 1959

Onto the social and academic stage of senior high school, the Class of 1959, leaders at junior high, were cast in their new role as followers, giving an award-winning performance.

Stretching their elastic personalities to include Student Council and Pennant Staff positions, the enthusiastic Sophomores extended their unusual talents to varsity basketball, providing a forceful majority and a promising future for the Little Giants.

In producing the Sophomore Hop, the Class raised the curtain on future responsibilities by gaining valuable working experience and know-how.

Contagiously fun-loving, the vivacious group revived even the upperclassmen's interest in dances and parties, thus revealing their ability to lead as well as to follow.

How Old Books Like People?

Books are space-spanners, taking us back to colorful periods in history inaccessible except through the printed page. Serving as inexpensive travel guides, books give us a coup d'oeil of the intrigue of the Orient, the culture of the Continent, and the wilderness of Africa.

Is there anything as pleasant as curling up in an overstuffed armchair with a good book and letting our imaginations respond to the subtleties of the author's whims, relaxing pent-up tension and shifting interest from ourselves to others?

Who of us hasn't at one time sought the help of sages of the past and present through their writings? Shakespeare offers advice to the love-lorn, Milton grants hope to the discouraged, and Cervantes brings cheer to the heart!

And how could education exist without books—those reservoirs of knowledge bequeathed to us by others? Textbooks form the foundation for both the technical professions and the humanities. It is our responsibility to unleash this "canned" power and fashion it to hitherto-undreamed-of concepts.

Sophomores study Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar"; Seniors, "Macbeth." English IV student Janice Nagel reads, "Bubble, bubble, toil and trouble," as the witches brew their magic potion in "Macbeth."

Newspapers, magazines, and books are brought into intensive use by the term paper assignments in English IV. Carol Rainey, Sheila VanMiddlesworth, and Stan Miller gather copious notes preparatory to writing theirs. Careful attention is paid to correct form for bibliography, footnotes, table of contents and other minutiae.

English

Our language is both colorful and beautiful; the English department attempts to stimulate a love for our native tongue through appreciation of its finer points. It stresses the clear expression of ideas, which is characteristic of all good speaking and writing.

English is studied in two separate phases—literature and grammar. Literature begins with a study of short stories or relatively light material and gradually advances to longer, more tedious selections such as Silas Marner, "Julius Caesar," and "Macbeth." Every year a special study of poetry is made, including memorization, recitation, and evaluation; this study is accented by a poetic creation by the student himself.

In grammar Sophomores are given long written assignments in an effort to fix basic principles of sentence structure firmly in their minds.

Juniors are encouraged to employ, in both speaking and writing, the four C's—clearness, correctness, conciseness, and completeness.

The first Distinguished Service Cross (of World War II) was awarded posthumously (to Captain Colin P. Kelly) (for action) (in the Philippines). (Each prepositional phrase is enclosed in parentheses.)

A preposition is placed on a slant line, and its object, on a horizontal line joined to the slant line. The whole name is placed on a horizontal line.

7. Sometimes launched from the decks of carriers.
8. The operation of an ice-cream machine is recorded in an old diary of George Washington's. (Ice-cream is one of the things that he liked.)

Dependent clauses, adverbial phrases, predicate nominatives, compound and complex sentences—these are some of the grammatical terms haunting English students. Cleonia Rohrer analyzes a sentence for an assignment in English III.

GOOD USAGE IN WRITTEN AND ORAL EXPRESSION ARE GOALS OF ENGLISH STUDENTS

The greatest challenge is English IV, where minute defects in grammar are caught and corrected. Here students must apply accumulated knowledge and, during the writing of critiques and time-consuming research papers, are introduced to the requirements and demands of a college course.

Those most skilled in writing are appointed to serve on the Antonian Staff, whose duty it is to plan, organize, and publish the yearbook. Superior journalistic techniques and the nuances of writing are studied and discussed during the first few months; later, this knowledge is applied when the student begins writing articles and captions.

Those who complete the available English courses find themselves much more appreciative of its beauty, its rhythm, and its color. Having been stimulated to understand the English language and having acquired a basic knowledge of effective speaking and writing, students feel better prepared to join today's complex society.

Every English student is called upon to express himself in original poetic terms. English II students Vivian Chaney, Sherrill Lynch, and Ted Clarke had their poems published in "Young America Sings," put out by the National High School Poetry Association in Los Angeles.

Writing skills learned in journalism class are given practical application in the publication of the yearbook. Judy Barker sees her article in print and checks it for accuracy. Editor Alida Snyder and Assistant Marietta Welch observe layout.

Outstanding Latin students write competitive examinations during the second semester. Contestants Beverly Pilger, Ellen McQueen, Lou Ann Harn, and Charles Rogers entered the district event. Lou Ann Harn received a superior rating and advanced to the sectional contest. Ellen McQueen received an excellent rating.

Spanish students acquire background information about the political, economic, and cultural aspects of Spanish-speaking countries as well as a knowledge of the language itself. Jim McMullen selects the Mexican flag from among those of Latin American countries.

Languages

THROUGH STUDY OF LANGUAGES WE GAIN APPRECIATION FOR WAYS
OF OTHERS IN THE WORLD

Latin is the basis of many modern languages. Often considered "dead," it is not actually so. Every paragraph in every book, newspaper, and magazine contains some Latin. In the study of the use and meanings of words, we are constantly referring to ancient Roman civilization for their origin. It can be truly said, "Latin Lives Today."

An understanding of the French people in particular and of Europe in general can be enhanced by the ability to read and speak the diplomatic language. Over 69,000,000 people in this world can speak French fluently. It provides a cultural background for the study of history, music, art, and science. French influence can be seen in the New Orleans area and in our neighbors to the north.

French II student Kathy Kamlager feels almost as though she were there as she reads about the joie vivre characteristic of Paris. Students get to love many things that are typically French as they study the language.

Over 103,000,000 people speak Spanish.

Spanish acquaints us with the characteristic everyday life of the Spanish speaking countries, their customs, beliefs, and home life. In traveling to our southern neighbors, it is much more convenient if a person has the ability to speak Spanish. Spanish influence in the southwestern part of our country remains strong even though it has been over a hundred years since we were under the Spanish domination. Vacation trips to these regions are more meaningful after a study of Spanish culture in connection with the language.

Through the public speaking course, young people develop poise, self-assurance, and clarity of expression. A person will find that during his lifetime his speech will either help or hinder him. Accomplished public speakers strive for sincerity of feeling, soundness of logic, skill in arrangement of material and marshaling of argument. As Robert Louis Stevenson once said: "There is no fairer ambition than to excel in talk; to be affable, gay, ready, clear, and welcome."

P A R I S

The most joyous, the most exciting, the most beautiful city in the world

World Geography student Dawn Burge looks on as Jim Westerfield explains a Civics poster. In Civics class students get detailed information about the governments of the United States, State of Illinois, Fulton County, Canton Township, and City of Canton.

The gradual development of American political, economic, and social traditions is followed step by step in American History classes. Bill Gibbons reads about some of the events that have made "Old Glory" the symbol of the greatest country in the world.

Social Studies

Dorothy Fisk, Rodger Murphy, and Karen Werry exchange ideas on money and banking, one of the topics covered in the Economics class.

World History student Don Pruden coördinates maps and the globe to get an accurate geographical location of Asia. Map study is imperative to an understanding of world affairs.

GREATER UNDERSTANDING OF SOCIAL STUDIES NECESSARY IF WE ARE TO LEARN TO LIVE IN PEACE

While the sciences have moved steadily forward, relations between individuals, groups, and nations have deteriorated or remained stagnant. Greater understanding of social studies may be our salvation from the misapplication of the sciences.

World History covers events from prehistoric man to the present. It helps us to recognize the inherent worth of man as an individual and his continuous quest for freedom from his limitations.

American History evaluates our country's development in all phases—political, social, economic, and diplomatic—with special emphasis on recent trends and American traditions.

In Civics we study the basic structure and powers of national, state, and local governments. A detailed study is made of the Declaration of Independence and other significant documents enumerating our rights, privileges and duties as citizens.

Sociology deals with human relationships, both individual and group. Problems of our daily experience are discussed and analyzed with a view toward gaining new personal goals.

Legal principles and responsibilities are clarified in the Commercial Law course; here we learn about the application of special areas of law to business and personal problems.

In World Geography we learn why some nations are advanced and others backward by studying the conditions which shape their progress.

The forces at work which influence our economy are studied in Economics. Such practical areas as insurance, taxation, money, credit, and supply and demand are taken up.

While it may be true that these fields cannot be approached by the "scientific method," it is clear that an improvement of our understanding of them is necessary in these troubled days!

Larry Sprague, Larry Brown, John Rettenmayer, and Ned Eshelman demonstrate the procedure of measuring the number of calories needed to melt a gram of ice in Physics class.

Biology runs the animal gamut from the microscopic, one-celled protozoa to the miraculously complex human being and contains a detailed coverage of plant life. Interesting laboratory work includes the dissection of frogs and earthworms.

Chemistry students study molecular structures, air and water composition, acids, bases, salts, solutions, mixtures, and the elements of our earth and learn to balance equations according to valences. In experiments, using all sorts of chemicals and modern equipment, they apply their acquired knowledge.

Physics probes more into the fields of energy and mechanics and includes experimental adventures with sound, light, heat, electricity, motion, and forces. Hidden principles of operation in commonplace devices are sought out and clarified.

Homemaking

MAKING A COMFORTABLE HOME
IS A FINE ART LEARNED
THROUGH EXPERIENCE

Most girls eventually face cooking, sewing, housekeeping, sick care and sensible budgeting in their roles as homemakers.

Having to do with the commonplace things of everyday living, homemaking aids in gaining basic skills essential for family welfare as well as personal development.

The selection of proper foods and the importance of conserving nutrients in their preparation are stressed. The relation of food selection to improvement in appearance through adequate diet is emphasized. The buying of foods, the interpretation of labels, and the evaluation of advertisements in the buying of clothes and household furnishings are covered.

The importance of getting along with people is stressed. Since the starting point for developing this ability is the home, it is only appropriate that instruction regarding personal development—manners, personality, and vocations—are brought out in homemaking.

Pat Morgan stitches a seam in her new dress for Homemaking class. The department is equipped with machines which permit students to put out top quality work.

Modeling the dresses they made in Homemaking class are Judy Brons, Mary Sue Knuppel, and Lela List. Every Homemaking student is required to make a dress as part of her training.

BEFORE—Third year Homemaking students are required to salvage an old piece of furniture and restore it to a useful condition. Jeannette Perry, Shirley Courtney, and Sara Jarnagin are ready to begin work on delapidated items of furniture.

AFTER—Refinished pieces of furniture are hardly recognizable when work is completed. Restoring furniture is part of the "learning by doing" program in Homemaking.

Encouraging cleanliness and good health, homemaking displays the necessary equipment for proper care of the sick as well as infants, resulting in a feeling of ease during crises requiring private home nursing.

Exercising a little ingenuity, students restore old, worthless furniture to useful and attractive pieces. Cabinets, bookcases, and overstuffed pieces are redone. The girls also learn the basic rules of chromatic design applied to interior decorating.

Investigations regarding parent and child relationships show the need for leisure time activities in which the entire family participates. These matters are among those studied in the family relations unit.

Basic artistic principles employed in dress designing are taught to help the student in selecting patterns or ready-made apparel with graceful lines, and at the same time natty in style.

The fundamentals of clothing construction are sufficiently treated to enable the pupil to acquire a considerable skill in sewing.

A mushroom cloud of steam rolls upward as Kathy Wiles lifts the lid on her concoction to see how things are doing. Food preparation is an important phase of Homemaking training.

Sue Orendorff explains a geometric problem having to do with tangents to a circle in Plane Geometry class.

Mathematics

AN UNDERSTANDING OF MATHEMATICS IS NECESSARY FOR A VARIETY OF
VOCATIONS AND PROFESSIONS

Examining a dodecahedron in Solid Geometry class are Dave Skinner and Charles Shaw.

Since mathematics is basic to many professions, there is a national need for increased numbers of men and women who can make a practical application of it.

Algebra, dealing with symbolic equations and deductive and inductive reasoning, develops the pupil's power to think in the abstract and to work with logical sequences. He is led to form conclusions and generalizations based on a step by step analysis of problems, and the skills thus acquired are often carried over into personal life.

Geometry, through application of theorems and hypotheses relative to measurement of geometrical figures, continues the training in methodic thinking. Orderly thought helps one to converse more intelligently, to read with better understanding, and to evaluate the logic and reasoning of others, sifting the main points in a discussion or thesis from the less important ones.

Trigonometry is useful in the indirect measurement of angles and distances. It is an essential tool in the fields of engineering and advanced physical sciences and is of prime utility in defense of our country.

SHORTHAND, TYPING, AND BOOKKEEPING
OFFER SKILLS FOR SUCCESS IN A COMPLEX BUSINESS WORLD

Introduction to Business acquaints Sophomores with specific phases of business activity—selling, record keeping, typewriting, and shorthand—and gives the student an opportunity to study his interests and test his abilities in various business areas.

Two years of shorthand are available to enable students to understand the subject's theories and practice them effectively.

The typist learns to set up letters, papers, and forms and adapts this knowledge to assignments.

Speed requirements, established for shorthand and typing I, are increased in the second year of the subjects.

The operation of equipment like the calculator, adding machine, and duplicating machine is taught in business laboratory.

Bookkeeping helps students understand accounting procedures and record keeping for use in businesses or in a home.

Three years of business training are designed to prepare graduates for business positions or give them foundations for further study in business schools and colleges.

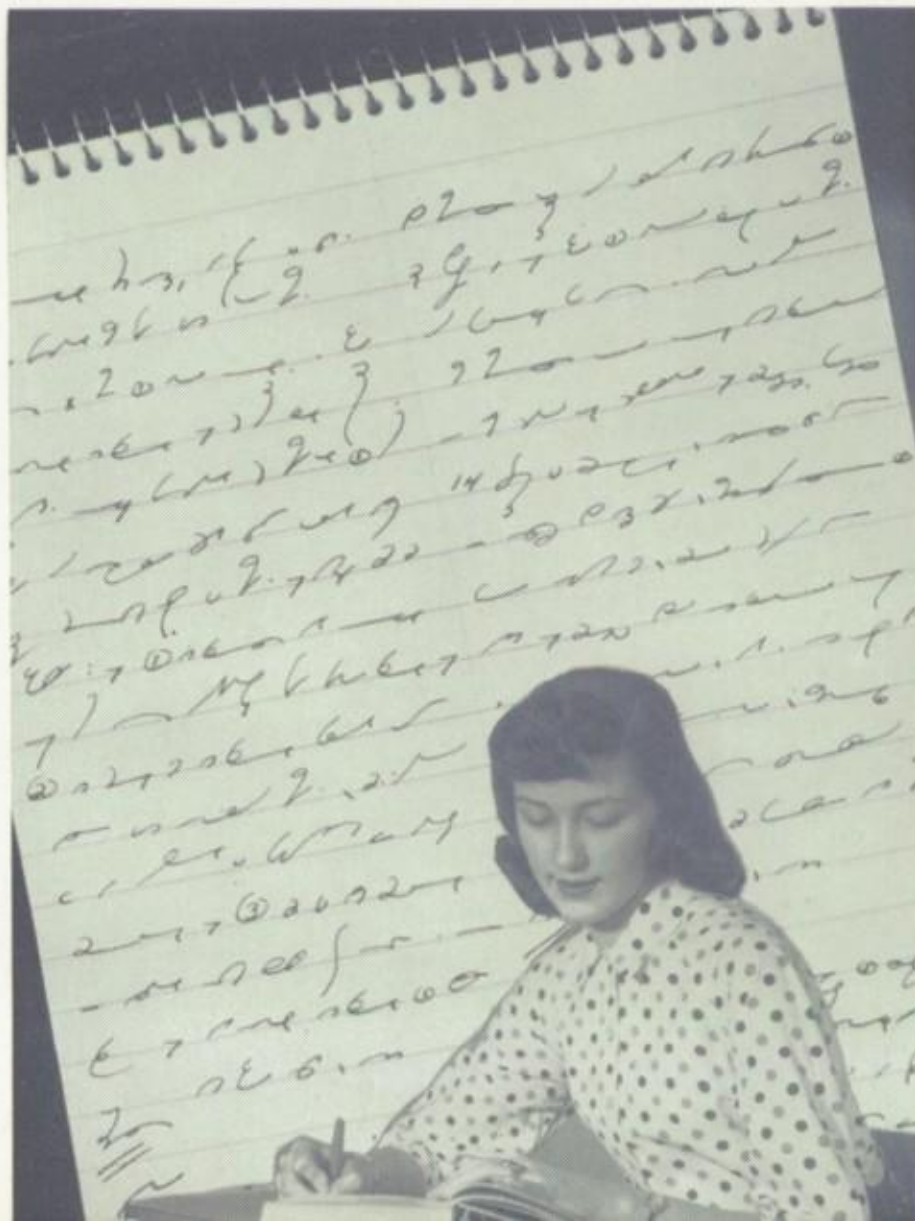

Janice Matayo types a letter from a belt on the dictaphone. She hears the letter dictated through an earphone, operating the machine with her foot. This is part of the training in stenography.

Dann Fidler studies his Bookkeeping workbook. Learning the proper form for making balance sheets is one of the phases covered in Business Education.

Mary Craig works on an exercise in shorthand. In advanced stenography, shorthand notes are later transcribed in typing class.

Scholarship

High school provides challenges for a high degree of scholastic achievement. To stimulate an interest in scholarship, recognition of honor students is accomplished here in several ways.

The most common reward for quality performances is the satisfaction of meriting a regular place on the honor roll. Students are given the opportunity to acquire financial aid for college on the basis of the scholastic record. The National Honor Society, consisting of students in the upper fifteen per cent of the Senior Class, recognizes desirable qualities, including scholarship, in our students.

Although we may feel that the investment in time and effort is great, the dividends are even more so. No more valuable asset can accrue from high school training than scholastic honors. We can never divorce ourselves from our records here—they affect our lives forever!

From among this select group will come the valedictorian and salutatorian of the Class of 1957! Seated: Anne Schwerer and Jackie James; standing: Marietta Welch, Jim Ellis, and Alida Snyder. High scholastic standing is the finest honor that can come to a high school graduate.

ALL BOOKS, MAGAZINES, AND NEWSPAPERS GET WORKOUT AS STUDENTS LEARN BASIC RESEARCH TECHNIQUES

Keeping track of 9,567 books, forty-seven magazines (not counting the 34 magazines in the departmental libraries) and four daily newspapers keeps the twenty-three student librarians on their toes! These custodians of the printed word are constantly besieged with requests for special information and material. The library is regularly plagued with parasitic students laboring over research for term papers.

Miss Ruth Cagley, budgeting $450.00, scrutinizes countless book lists during the year, carefully making new selections to fit all tastes: travel, sports, history, as well as the classics.

The library serves not only as a workshop for research and study, but also as a retreat for quiet browsing or listening to recordings.

Jim Kruzan browses among the 43 magazines available to students in the library. Files of back copies are kept for five years, primarily for term paper work.

HIGGINS' OIL COMPANY—DISTRIBUTORS OF SHELL OIL PRODUCTS

Every spring the Drafting Department sets up a display in the lobby. Blueprints and models of original home designs are shown. Jack Gumbel, Kenny Daily, Lance Lindeen, and Joe Royer pose in front of their exhibits.

The making of blueprints is one of the key phases of training in Drafting. Max Latimer demonstrates how the blueprint machine operates.

Industrial Arts instructors Glenn Medus, William Metzger, Harold Johnson, and Fred Russell get together for a bull session. Isolated from the academic wing, their building does not interfere with quiet meditation going on in the "book larnin'" part of the school.

Industrial Arts

DRAFTING—Students of drafting study all phases of industrial machine production and learn orthographic projection in drawings. Those with architectural ambitions study the interpretation of blueprints and design and build model modernistic homes.

This thorough, interesting coverage of construction and drafting and related mathematical problems includes instruction in lettering.

WOODWORKING—To future carpenters and cabinet makers, this course explains the details of fine woodworking. The students become quality-conscious by gaining experience in actual wood fastening and finishing.

Many fine products made by these ambitious boys include end tables, gun racks, card tables, chests, bureaus, bookcases, and desks.

MACHINE SHOP—Those taking this course become acquainted with the operation and care of lathes, grinders, and shaping and milling machines. Respect is created for these modern, labor-saving devices. Students also work with metals and make and use such tools as hammers, soldering irons, vices, and drill presses.

Larry Johns and David Breedlove display their skill in the art of woodworking. Every boy designs, makes, and finishes several pieces of furniture a year.

Harold Sizek gives a final check to his ag projects, a portable burner and a hog chute. All ag students are required to work on some project.

Bob Little, Bob Canevit, and Larry Bishop inspect a metal frame they have just welded. Welding is one of the important skills learned in agriculture class.

Scott Parrish was given a special award at the Canton Friendship Festival as the outstanding agriculture student.

Agriculture

BOYS IN AGRICULTURE LEARN THE BASIC PRINCIPLES OF SCIENTIFIC FARMING

The principle of teaching in agriculture is to learn by doing, which is practiced by the boys under the qualified direction of Mr. Fred Russell.

Each spring the agriculture classes begin their annual projects of raising a corn crop on the high school plot. At the beginning of the next year the crop is eagerly harvested by the students.

Other such projects are raising and caring for livestock and poultry and building necessary farm structures, as well as learning many other farming skills.

Reaction times of students are tested in Driver Education. Here the test is being administered by Neil Williams to Gerald Rupe.

Ability to judge distances is important to driving safety. Neil Williams tests his visual acuity as Charles Rogers observes.

Driver Training

IN DRIVER EDUCATION SAFETY HABITS
ARE ACQUIRED THROUGH BOOKS
AND PRACTICE DRIVING

Mr. Glenn Harjes tests the perimeter vision of one of his students in Driver Education.

In today's complex traffic young people must be taught safe driving habits and practices at the very outset of their driving careers. Driver Education programs teach youths self-discipline, self-guidance, and self-protection, mental qualities which spell survival on the highways!

There have been more useless deaths on the highways of America than the combined total on the battlefields of all the wars in which the United States has ever been engaged. The knowledge of such facts tends to develop in students an awareness of the need for caution.

Statistics show that trained drivers have only half as many accidents as those untrained. Therefore, Sophomores are required by State law to undertake regular and systematic instruction in the fundamentals of good driving.

Vocal Music

CHORUSES, ENSEMBLES, AND SOLO
WORK GIVE VOCALISTS A WIDE RANGE OF EXPERIENCE HERE

Director Ketric Klingman's objectives of a greater appreciation of music, a clearer distinction between tonal parts, and the blending of voices within each section to produce the effect of one, proved to be difficult, though not unattainable.

Three days of every week were spent memorizing lyrics, repeatedly reviewing stanzas and lines, and exercising rhythmic breathing; better tonal quality was the result.

Those interested in the more refined development of their voices spent additional hours in the soundproof practice rooms. Nine soloists received superior ratings at the district contest in March!

Sara Blakely, accompanist for chorus, and Mary Craig, a member of the band, were chosen to receive this year's Arion Awards for contributing the most in a musical manner to their respective fields.

SIXTH PERIOD EVERY DAY FINDS BAND STUDENTS PRACTICING SCORES FOR BOTH CONCERTS AND CONTESTS

People are not born with skill in music. It must be laboriously cultivated. It is achieved only by hours of tedious practice. Our music students found that hard work pays off by bringing home thirty superior ratings from the district contest! The band participated in activities this year ranging from All-State Band in Springfield to the concert sponsored by the Pennant, commemorating the last public appearance of Mr. Ketric Klingman as director. Waving the baton second semester was Mr. Walter Brashear, who came to us from the business world.

Student Control Day

Delving behind the scenes and discovering some of the unsuspected problems that teachers daily face, students took over classes Thursday, February 28. Striving to make this day a success, Student Council members scheduled and planned it far in advance, publicizing it over the intercom and explaining the necessary qualifications to the students. Candidates for "teachers" volunteered for assignments. The final selection of student-teachers was determined by their leadership ability and their scholastic standing.

Period after period passed with faculty members "sitting in" on unfamiliar classes, evaluating the teenage teacher with reference to his subject knowledge, preparation, and class control. Nervous, but just a little proud, student-teachers lectured, encouraged recitations, and in some cases quizzed their classes on the material presented.

With the Student Council officers in charge, the school remained calm and serene throughout the day, possibly even a little quieter than usual!

Physical Education

With the best equipment at their disposal our physical education classes are able to maintain a varied schedule of sports activities.

The boys keep in top shape through football, basketball, softball, and vigorous calisthenics. This year wrestling and golf were added to the regular curriculum.

On the opposite side of the gym, the girls participate in such standard sports as tennis, volleyball, and archery, as well as modern interpretive exercises and original games. High on the list of popular activities in both classes is the trampoline.

Although the time-worn theme of "good sportsmanship" retains crown importance, new ideas seem to be the keynote for both boys' and girls' physical education classes.

ORGANIZATIONS

Are We Doomed To Be Bookworms?

We often think of school organizations as merely activities designed for letting off excess energy and having good times. Clubs, however, have more lasting, though sometimes hidden, purposes—they train us in the field of leadership, they give us a little savoir-faire in the modern social world, they rescue us from becoming devoted bookworms, and they teach us how to get along better with others.

Business meetings, accompanied by the ever present conversational din, touch off activities ranging from selling hot dogs at football games to sponsoring well-known lecturers. The Homecoming parade would be a dismal flop if it weren't for the burning of the midnight oil as well as the depletion of club treasuries. Gaining additional knowledge of current courses is another aim of club projects. Clubs are vehicles for better student-faculty relations.

Organizational activities form just one part of the potter's wheel whose job it is to mold us into stable adults with varied and ever increasing interests.

Y=Teens

Y-TEEN YEAR INCLUDED A FESTIVE PENNY CARNIVAL, ENLIGHTENING PANELS, AND TRAVELOGUES

"To grow as a person; to grow in friendship with people of all races, religions, and nationalities; to grow in the knowledge and love of God." These are the practical goals of Y-Teens all over the world. The international organization was formed to unite girls of every race, religion, and nationality, to bring about a better understanding of their common problems, and to spread the spirit of enthusiasm, service, friendship, love, and responsibility among teenage girls everywhere.

The biggest social events were the Y-Teen Carnival and the Christmas and Valentine dances.

Helping girls in foreign lands is very important to Y-Teens; in March they held a "Strip-Tea," each member wearing an extra article of clothing which she removed and placed in a box to be sent overseas.

Miss Charlotte Bennett presented a travelogue adding to our knowledge of the dress, beliefs, and home life of European peoples.

Family relations and religious panels proved to be very interesting and enlightening.

During the summer Alida Snyder, Janet Maxwell, Jackie James, Deanna Swartzbaugh, Joyce Hughes, Sherill Lynch, and Janice Dusten represented Canton at the State Y-Teen Conference held at Bradley University in Peoria. Janet Maxwell, chosen as state delegate represented Illinois at the National Y-Teen Conference in Washington, D. C., and New York City.

Girls contributed clothing which was sent to teenagers overseas at the Y-Teen Strip Tea, one of the annual service activities of the high school group.

"The meeting will now come to order!"—same old declaration but addressed to a new council! Student Council representatives and their alternates were chosen in homeroom elections; their selection completed the council, the four officers having been chosen the previous spring in a general school-wide election.

With a harvest moon shining down on the autumn scene of corn stalks, guarded by a scarecrow, the second council-managed Homecoming dance ranked among the most glamorous. The council also sponsored the Christmas dance and the Senior Farewell.

In addition to social gatherings, members encouraged thrifty students to purchase savings stamps in the drive originated by the Council. Student Control Day again provided an opportunity for students to test their teaching skills.

As a lighter project, the Student Council placed a juke box in the cafeteria, and lively music set the tempo for the ingestion of our food.

Representatives attended the district convention at Quincy, gaining new ideas on smooth, council operation.

As the out-going officers prepared for the election of next year's executives, posters appeared and campaigns were launched!

Biology Club

Anyone who studies biology knows that there is more to it than just "bugs," as the activities of the Biology Club indicate.

Club members sold pencils and operated the refreshment stand at football games to fatten their treasury for future projects. Winning second place for originality was the Biology Club Homecoming float, "Let's Rack Them!" A wiener roast and a dance after a football game were sponsored by the energetic group. Two potlucks were held as evidence of the club's keen interest in the digestive tract!

Showing their desire for educational programs, the club heard a talk on cancer by Dr. David Bennett and on bacteriology by Mr. Leonard Watson. The year was ended by the club's highly educational annual trip to Chicago.

STUDENT CONTROL DAY

The students have done it again. The 20th of this month the students of Canton Senior High School took over the school. It was a real hectic day with the students acting as teachers.

The students signed up for one or two classes (two was the limit) in the room in which they wished to teach. Students were to sign up for three subjects in which they have already had previous experience. There was a teacher visiting in the class room to see how well the student teacher carried the responsibility of a teacher. At the end of the class a visiting teacher made a brief report on the ability of the student teacher.

With Chet Carraway as the principal and Judy Barker and Marietta Walsh acting as secretaries, the office was taken over by able hands. Bill Schrodt, president of Senior Class, was appointed as liaison of students.

There were a few classes, which were not taught by students, such as drivers training, wood, and machine shop. As there could be a few accidents in these it was advised not to be taught by students.

All in all the day was a huge success with many students changing their opinion from ditch digging to chemistry.

Many student instructors showed great promise and ability as leaders and instructors.

We all had the day was very worthwhile and educational.

D. A. R. AWARDS

Chosen for the D. A. R. awards this year by the senior class and faculty are Miss Alida Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Snyder of 306 S. Main Street, and William Schrodt son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Schrodt of 407 North Avenue A.

Both Bill and Alida have been very active in school affairs and were chosen on the basis of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism.

The good citizens of each high school will receive a pin and a certificate of award.

Alida has participated in the following activities: Y-Teen, 2, 3, 4; Junior Class Pro, Pennant Staff, 2, 3; National Scholastic Press Association, 2, 4; Homecoming Committee, 4; State Y-Teen Conference, 4; French Club, 4; Pop Club, 2; National Honor Society, 2, 4; Emily Bolter, 2; Prom Committee, 3; Contest Staff, 2, 3, 4; Student Council, 2; Junior Class Flag Committee, 3; secretary Junior Class, vice-president of French Club, 4; Y-Teen secretary, 2; and program chair-

Bill has participated in many activities during his high school career, many of which are as follows: Pennant Staff, 2; Homecoming Committee, 4; Senior Council, Football, 2, 3, 4; Letter Winner, 4; F. F. A., 2, 3; Hop Committee, 4; National Honor Society, 3, 4; Prom Committee, 3; Student Council, 4; Intramural, 3; Bus League Sports, 2, 3; Beta H.V., 2; Track, 2, 3, 4; Letter Winner, 2, 3, 4; State track meet, 2; treasurer of Junior Class; president of Senior Class; vice-president of Student Council, 2, 4; emblem winner National Honor Society, 3, and class ring committee. Bill seems to lean toward a career as an army commissioned officer.

Senior Council

With one boy and one girl elected from each Senior homeroom, the Senior Council acts as an executive board, directing their class's activities throughout the year.

Helping out during the Senior Class Play, they placed posters in prominent places, had the tickets printed, and sought couples to act as ushers. The profits gained from this production went toward their biggest and most important job—preparation for the Senior-Junior Hop. By securing an orchestra, choosing a theme, preparing refreshments, buying crepe paper, and decorating the ballroom, they completed the plans for a successful evening.

Next, after much deliberation, they chose all-white graduation invitations with the 1957 class ring crest embossed on the front.

Carrying out money-making schemes for the yearbook, the members sold all-occasion cards to schoolmates and parents and school pencils to shoppers on the square.

The senior picnic and swim at Lake Storey signaled graduation and the end of the school year.

SENIOR COUNCIL.—(Seated) President Bill Schrodt, Larry Schrodt, Kenny Daily, Janice Nagel, Betty Bliesener, Carolyn Watts; (Standing) Advisers Ruth Cagley and Nathan Deutch, Bucky Turl, Vicki Johnson, Audrey Evans, Jim McMullen, Vice President Judy Barker, and Treasurer Chet Carrara.

National Honor Society

Probably the highest honor bestowed upon a senior high school student is membership in the National Honor Society, an affiliate of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals.

Though the members of the organization are envied by their classmates, all of them well know that sacrificing extensive social activities for concentrated hours of study is necessary in order to attain this coveted honor.

The top five percent of each Junior class is eligible for membership, while an additional ten percent may be chosen during the Senior year, thus completing the fifteen percent allowed each class.

Meeting the club's rugged requirements is a five-star accomplishment. Besides the necessary four-point average in scholastic ability, members are chosen for integrity, responsibility, and leadership.

The society's aim is to encourage students to raise their academic and moral standards and to prepare for better citizenship in post-school life.

Alida Snyder, an all-around student scholastically and socially, was elected president of the National Honor Society by her fellow scholars.

YEARBOOK STAFF PRESENTS PANORAMA OF YEAR USING LAYOUT DESIGN TO PACKAGE PRODUCT ATTRACTIVELY

Inaugurating our busy year in August, the Cantonian Staff was all "shook up" on the 14-hour school bus trip to Ann Arbor, Michigan, to attend the National Scholastic Press Association Conference at the University of Michigan. There the staff attended classes on various phases of yearbook production. A boat-trip was also included.

To gather financial support for the yearbook, staff members scurried from merchant to merchant obtaining sponsorships for pages. Meeting often at night, besides the regular class, the staff worked persistently to meet last-minute engraver's and printer's deadlines. At night sessions staff members created copy (rewrote articles as many as fifty times), designed the cover, edited copy, planned layout, and prepared captions for the printer.

Members of the photography staff often found their spare moments occupied by taking pictures of organizations, school events, and sports, and the slow, tedious processing of them.

Thespians

FLEDGLING ACTORS STRETCH THEIR WINGS IN CARNIVAL OF ONE-ACT
PLAYS PRESENTED FOR PUBLIC

The dim half-light of a nearly deserted stage after a successful performance is melancholy coda for the weeks of tedious rehearsals. The reward for a successful performance lies not only in the audience's applause of approval, but also in the memory that is instilled in the minds of all who took part; stagehands, make-up committees, and sound men included.

The Thespians' presentation of three one-act plays—"The Gypsy," "The Happy Journey," and "Spring Scene," all under student direction, demonstrated the talent and skill found in the student body.

The club is unique in its structure; it has no elected officers. All members experience the various responsibilities of secretary and president.

French Club

French Club members enjoyed their le petit déjeuner so much that another continental breakfast was given soon after this one.

C'EST SI BON: FRENCH CLUBBERS
ABSORB A BIT OF CONTINENTAL
AT GRAND GALA AT REDCREST

Le Cercle Français began the year with a gay petit déjeuner. After a continental breakfast consisting of hot chocolate, petit pains, and marmelade, Dr. Loran Reich spoke on the culture of Hungary. In November, early risers enjoyed a second petit déjeuner. Our guest speaker, Miss Charlotte Bennett, told of her recent travels throughout Europe. Next came the social event of the French Club year . . . le Grand Gala, celebrating the friendship of Washington and the Marquis de Lafayette. After weeks of planning menus, decorations, and entertainment we dined at atmospheric old Redcrest in true French fashion. The dinner table was elegantly decorated with shattered carnations floating in low bowls amidst slender white candles. After enjoying a delicious meal we heard from Superintendent L. E. Starke who chose as his topic the "Value of Education." This year also saw the purchase of a long awaited high fidelity phonograph and a number of fine European recordings for the French room.

Spanish Club

Three times this year La Sociedad Española (Spanish Club, to you) attended meetings of The Illinois Federation of Pan-American Leagues, where dining and dancing enabled Spanish students from different schools to get better acquainted. Lectures were given on the ways of life and the cultural contributions of the Spanish speaking people. At a Christmas party in Chillicothe the Canton group presented the skit, "What High School Corridors Know!" To Limestone they took signs reading (in Spanish) "What's your name?" and "Where are you from?" to start the evening's "mixer." In April high school Spanish speakers from all over Illinois gathered in Quincy to elect officers at the State Convention.

Last fall the club worked as a unit to produce a life-size Mexican bull for their Homecoming float, winning second place for beauty.

"Toreador" Gary Ryno plunges the Spanish Club sword into El Toro "East Peoria" on the club's second place float in the Homecoming parade.

Librarians Club

"Get me the January 3, 1955, issue of Life!" "Find me some information on archeological expeditions in the Fertile Crescent!" The frustration experienced at hearing these requests is familiar to all student librarians.

They banded together over fifteen years ago to form a small but active group known simply as the Librarians' Club. The goal of the club is to acquaint members with one another better so that they may work easily together toward the improvement of their library technique and thus offer better service.

Supplying varied material for the bulletin board displays in the foyer showcase is a major responsibility resting in their hands.

Like most clubs, the Librarians respect the ancient adage, "All work and no play makes Jill a dull girl!" This year's activities centered around a festive Christmas party; the girls also backed the Homecoming activities by building a decorative float.

Because most of the members are bus students, the club seldom meets outside school hours; yet it has again attained its admirable goal.

Student librarians show an interest in something besides books as they enter an attractive float in the Homecoming Parade.

History Club

There is something new under the sun! Joining the school's variety of clubs this year was the History Club. President John Rettemayer, Vice-President Larry Moran, Secretary Barbara Browning, Treasurer Pat Wise, and Adviser Wayne D. Fisher, led the members initiating a series of "Then and Now" lectures by Canton area scholars.

The lecture series was launched by Mrs. Helen Clark, Canton Senior High School Latin instructor, who drew a comparison between conditions leading to the deterioration of ancient Rome and similar conditions evident now.

The next comparison, job opportunities available when he graduated from college with opportunities now, was delivered by Mr. Ben Kietzman, Placement Director at Bradley University.

Canton State Bank Vice-President Albert Snakenberg compared economic conditions preceding the crash of 1929 with economic conditions prevailing in our country today.

A point system stimulated attendance. Members earned points by bringing guests to the lectures. A history reference book was awarded the winner.

Candy Sellers

No matter what the score, the candysellers lend a "sweet touch" to every basketball game! Before each game the girls check their assigned "beats" and set up their stands. Providing tidbits for hungry basketball fans, some walk precariously up and down the aisles of bleachers carrying trays filled with a generous assortment of candy, chewing gum, and ice cream, while others serve behind ice cream and pop stands in the lobby.

Profits earned are divided equally between the Junior and Senior Class treasuries. Although these girls receive little acknowledgement, they are one of the hardest working, selfless, groups around!

Future Homemakers of America

Realizing that the homes of tomorrow will be in their hands, pupils who study homemaking have organized to help learn how to build homes where truth, love, security, and faith will produce harmony. With their club flower, a red rose, symbolizing vibrant, glowing health, and their colors, red and white, symbolizing youth and purity, their goal is to face the future with warm courage and high hopes.

During the year, the members built a Homecoming float, held business meetings, entertained socially the Junior High F.H.A., and studied the care and styling of hair, led by a professional hair dresser.

Future Farmers of America

Starting off the year properly the Future Farmers of America sponsored a tent, displaying agricultural exhibits from various 4-H groups and agriculture classes in Fulton County at the Canton Friendship Festival. A special award was presented to Scott Parrish, president of Canton F.F.A., as outstanding agriculture student.

On October 8 members of F.F.A. took part in a land judging contest. The boys' opinions compared favorably with those of experts.

A National Convention was held in Kansas City, October 15-18, with David Ellsworth, Gary Steck, Bill Cook, and Eldon Williams present. These boys were selected to attend on the basis of articles judged by Principal Felts and F.F.A. officers. With November came the grain show in Havana with many Canton boys displaying projects in grain and poultry. One relatively new project was farming a tract of school property.

This year, as always, F.F.A. boys have learned to do, done to learn, earned to, and lived to serve.

Weather permitting, archers work out as long as possible in the fall and come out shooting early in the spring. Meeting after school, the students earn points toward letters. Two hundred points and a second year membership are required for an award. Five points are gained for each hour of practice and tournament participation adds extra credit.

As a further demonstration of their ability to hit the mark, they sponsored a dance after a football game and entered a car in the Homecoming parade.

Girls' Athletic Association

G.A.A. OFFERS ALL GIRLS THE CHANCE TO TAKE PART IN ORGANIZED SPORTS

Striving to be "all around gals," members of the Girls' Athletic Association can be found "shaping up" through sports activities. A member of the Illinois League of High School Girls' Athletic Associations, organized to promote interest in the out-of-doors, health, and good sportsmanship, the local club participates in athletic events with clubs in neighboring schools. Under a point system established by the state association they earn points toward two state emblems and two local letters.

Noting Janet Richardson's style as she throws for a strike are Mary Susan Mickalonis, Rosalie Westerfield, Nancy Mayo, Elsie Seward, and Pat Munson. The girls' bowling team meets twice a week at the alleys to polish their bowling techniques.

Members engaged in such a variety of sports as to make the most daring of athletes breathless! Softball, speedball, hockey, archery, tennis, volley tennis, and volleyball provided enjoyment for many, while others participated in deck tennis, cage ball, basketball, aerial darts, badminton, and table tennis. Some found bowling to be right up their alley; if not, there was swimming, square dancing, and trampoline! Intramural tournaments were held, and girls entered the state postal tournaments in bowling, basket shooting, and archery.

Local members took active parts in the district workshop at Gene-seo, fall "Play Day" at Valley, dance and badminton clinic at Illinois State Normal, spring "Play Day" at Brimfield, and a district overnight camping trip. G.A.A. members sponsored an all-school dance, a homecoming float, and worked in the concession stand at football games! Whew!!

ATHLETICS

Are Sports Confined To A Few?

"Get that ball!" All dignity is lost when students drop their academic demeanor and yell for our boys during athletic contests! Everyone gets into sports activity, whether it be scrapping on the gridiron, romping on an Intramural squad, or merely vibrating vocal cords in support from the bleachers.

Autumn finds fans braving the drizzling rains and chilly blasts to cheer on the Varsity as they work the pigskin toward a touchdown.

In December interest shifts to the basketball court where the hardwood quintet tussles with the best teams from all over the State. Wrestling, no kin to television's "rasslin'," draws many who enthusiastically learn the intricate techniques of the mat.

In spring a young man's fancy turns to baseball, track, and golf as the indoor confinements of winter yield to the call of balmy breezes.

Intramurals attract participants who enjoy sports but who do not compete on Varsity teams.

Throughout the entire year sports activity is accompanied by the old chant—"Get that ball!"

Having gained essential experience during their Sophomore year as Junior Varsity cheerleaders, Sue Moorhouse, Sharon Kaler, and Bonnie Murphy are now ready to assume their future positions on the Varsity quintet. The process of elimination was employed by faculty members and experienced cheerleaders in order to select these Sophs.

Cheerleaders

CHEERLEADERS BOOST SPIRIT ON THE GRIDIRON, COURT, AND DURING PEP ASSEMBLIES

"Ready . . . HIT IT! . . ." Led by our vivacious cheerleaders, enthusiastic yells echoed throughout the auditorium during many rousing pep rallies! The animated quintet, Janice Johnson, Karen Marshall, Audrey Evans, Janice Howarter, and Janice Flambers, excitedly followed the plays of every Varsity game from the sidelines, unfailingly boosting team and school spirits. Their catchy cheers and peppy personalities supported the players throughout the grueling football and basketball seasons. Last March, Seniors Janice, Karen and Audrey cheered their final game as Canton bowed out in the opening game of the Regional tournament.

Junior Varsity games were spurred on by the loyal backing of our capable, exuberant Sophomore cheerleaders, Bonnie Murphy, Sharon Kaler, and Susan Moorhouse.

Varsity cheerleaders Janice Howarter, Janice Johnson, Audrey Evans, Karen Marshall, and Janice Flambers live it up Indian style in an attempt to lift drooping school spirit. Throughout the year this bouncy five displayed rhythm and acrobatic skill in their cheering routines.

FACING TOUGH OPPOSITION, TEAM FINISHED FOURTH IN THE ILLINI CONFERENCE

Correct grip, stance, and good posture—these fundamentals are requisite for a good game of golf; they must be learned before more serious tactics can be undertaken. Under the direction of Coach Leroy Macklin, the linksters played against tough and more experienced opposition, showing great potential at becoming real “pros” at the game. Finding Peoria Central the roughest opponent, the locals were walloped twice (15–0, 14–1) getting only one point out of a possible thirty. However, they defeated East Peoria twice, and finished fourth in the Illini Conference.

Playing in inclement weather at Galesburg, the squad showed great promise again, trailing by only one point in a crucial game, but rain interrupted play and the match was called. Since only four lettermen returned from the previous year, the relatively inexperienced squad made a notable impression. The 1956 season was the last for golf because no links are available for practice.

DROPPING KEWANEE AND FARMINGTON,
LITTLE GIANTS LACKED SIZE,
DEPTH, AND RESERVES

The Little Giants' 1956 football offensive ability was vested primarily in Jim Yerbic's aerial plays and Steve Kennedy's ground gainers, with passing as the yardage-maker. The club's chief encumbrance was lack of size and depth. With only 28 athletes out, there were inadequate replacements in nearly all positions. Although the Little Giants' record of 2 and 7 was not impressive, the squad occasionally gave outstanding performances against overwhelming odds. There were exceptionally good quarters and halves, but the Little Giants were unable to sustain these drives throughout the game, chiefly because of the lack of size and inadequate reserves.

CANTON 13, KEWANEE 12—The Little Giants opened the season by dumping Kewanee. In the first quarter Canton recovered a Kewanee fumble and marched for a touchdown in three plays with Steve Kennedy hitting paydirt. Jim Yerbic followed for the extra point. The second touchdown was set up by passes to John Nelson and Ethan Blackaby. Steve Kennedy again carried for the TD.

CANTON 12, SPALDING 62—Hampered by injuries to Yerbic, Craig, Kennedy, Schrodt and Geier in the Kewanee game and Spalding's 90-yard touchdown on the opening kickoff, the Little Giant's first score resulted from a key tackle by Gary Beadles, causing a bobbled pass which Ethan Blackaby intercepted. The second score came late in the game on an end run by Beadles.

Head football coach Leroy Macklin, disappointed by the small turnout of boys resulting in a 2-7 record for the season, looks forward to better prospects next year at which time a large number of Sophomores are expected to try for the team.

CANTON 6, PEKIN 32—An outclassed Canton team was routed by the Chinks, highlighted by their 78 yard gallop to paydirt. The halftime score, 0 to 6, was deceiving. Craig scored our lone TD late in the final period.

CANTON 6, PEORIA WOODRUFF 54—Canton held Woodruff to a 13 to 6 score at halftime, but feeling the effects of the absence of Blackaby and Kennedy, the Little Giants succumbed in the second half as the Warriors pushed across 6 TD's.

CANTON 0, MONMOUTH 19—Recovering seven crucial Little Giant fumbles, the Monmouth Zippers unzipped the local eleven. Although in scoring position several times, we failed to tally. The Zippers were sparked by a speedy halfback who continually scampered 20 and 30 yards.

CANTON 7, EAST PEORIA 14—East Peoria invaded Canton with an all out ground attack, in an Illini Conference tilt. Steve Kennedy scored first on a 43-yard jaunt, set up by Gary Meacham, who recovered an East Peoria fumble. East Peoria scored in the second and fourth quarters to cop the contest.

CANTON 6, LIMESTONE 12—Dropping a narrow decision, the Little Giants out-gained the Rockets in yardage and first downs, aggressively piling up 11 first downs to 8. The Canton TD was set up by the completing of 5 passes and finally completing a pass to end Chet Carrara.

CANTON 7, GALESBURG 54—The Silver Streaks saw daylight in our line for a total of eight times to sustain their undefeated record, with the All-State Kimbrough brothers collecting 5 touchdowns in the first half. The lone Canton TD was an aerial from Ethan Blackaby to end John Nelson.

CANTON 12, FARMINGTON 6—Canton wound up its season by beating their traditional rival. Both clubs scored in the first quarter with Jim Yerbic collecting for Canton, then battled into the fourth period with Yerbic connecting with Kennedy on a scoring pass play to cop the contest.

FROM DECEMBER TO FEBRUARY SCHOOL
SCENE WAS LIVENED BY ROUSING
BATTLES AT ALICE INGERSOLL

The hardwood has seen better days from a record standpoint, but seldom have there been more exciting games than those this season!

Dave Downey was high scorer with 458 points, an average of 19 per game. Dave also scored 71 points in a week-end trip to Centralia and Cumberland, scoring 36 points (the highest individual point total of the year) against Centralia, and 35 against Cumberland (the second highest total). Lowest team production was 27 points against Spalding; the highest, 66 points against Galesburg.

Arch rival Pekin was almost upset 44-43 in one of the thrilling home contests. Another thriller was the home game with Galesburg. Tied with two minutes to play, the Streaks pulled it out of the fire, 70-66. Both Pekin and Galesburg went on to the State Tournament.

Louis Silotto, scoring 24 points against East Peoria, had the best performance of the year for a second stringer.

In the Regional Tournament, the Little Giants lost to Elmwood in our opening game, 53-52.

Jeff Swan works his way through the Decatur defense and scores on a lay-up. The Reds went on to win a close battle, 66-61.

At a tight spot in the Decatur game, the home five gather around basketball mentor, Frank Whitman, as he uses the floor to map out a change in strategy.

To open the season the Little Giants defeated Monmouth 43-39, failing to fold under pressure in the closing minutes of the game.

Hitting on a large percentage of their shots, the Farmington Farmers walloped the Little Giants 73-55, and in doing so served notice on the area that they were a team to be watched.

Canton fell behind during the first three quarters of the Decatur fracas, following the pattern of previous games, only to come within five points with two and one half minutes remaining in the game.

In the 64-62 win over Flora the Little Giants switched the usual procedure by leading all through the game and staving off a last minute spurt by Flora. The win snapped a five game losing streak.

Paced by Dave Downey's 22 points the Little Giants stopped a late rally by Cuba to pick up a 58-50 victory.

Encountering a set of coy, illusive nets at East Peoria the Little Giants were trounced by the Red Raiders 70-39.

Without the service of guard Ethan Blackaby the Little Giants lost to Woodruff 77-48 on the Peoria stage.

In an Illini Conference game the Cantonians lost to the Rockets from Limestone 67-54. Dave Downey netted 22 for the losing cause.

Coming from behind in a thriller the Little Giants belted Washington 54-47. Down by 12 at the half the Little Giants roared back in the second half to outscore Washington 39-19.

In an overtime contest Bradley nipped Canton 64-59, Blackaby sinking 24 and Downey 20.

Pekin connected on 22 of 55 shots dumping Canton 65-36. Dave Downey again paced with 17.

Snapping their 16-game winning streak, we clipped undefeated Farmington 43-41, with Larry Konhorst playing his best game.

The Little Giants lost 58-49 to Spalding, but highly touted Galesburg barely squeezed by in an Illini Conference game 70-66. Trailing by 6 after the first three frames, we fought back to tie with seconds remaining before the Streaks pulled it out of the fire.

Shooting .407, the Little Giants turned back Kewanee 65-42, hitting 23 points in the last quarter while holding the Boilermakers to eight.

Middle—Ethan Blackaby, one of Canton's highest scorers, zeroes in on a basket with a jump shot. Dave Downey is in position to rebound.

Bottom—Dave Downey is "double-teamed" as a defensive maneuver. Downey was Canton's most consistent scorer.

John Morrell, in his third year as a matman, turned in consistently good performances throughout the season, topped off with a trip to the State finals in Champaign.

Wrestling

This was a building season for the Canton matmen. Since the squad of fifteen included only three seniors, the underclassmen became well seasoned for next year. Anchoring the group were returning lettermen John Morrell (118 pounds), Anthony Marinich (116 pounds), and Rex Jett (120 pounds).

John Morrell was the outstanding wrestler as he won the 118-pound division championship in the sectional tournament by defeating grapplers from Woodruff, Central, Moline, and Rock Island. The win put him in the State finals at Champaign. Anthony Marinich collected a pin and a decision before being eliminated in the sectional semi-finals.

In the Illini Conference meet Bob Jennings (158 pounds) and Gurney Masters (95 pounds) both copped second place in their weight divisions.

Others seeing action were Arland Whites (106 pounds), Jerry Yocum (120 pounds), Roger Baughman (124 pounds), Dennis Etter (130 pounds), Roger McIntire (137 pounds), Gary Hebb (142 pounds), Gary Meacham (147 pounds), Larry Brown (168 pounds), Roger Motsinger (175 pounds), and Richard Flynn and Jim Westerfield, heavyweights.

Every offensive or defensive move made by a wrestler is a complex maneuver (either a take-down, reversal, escape, or pin) involving a special movement of the arms, legs, and head. These are taught to the Canton grapplers by Coach Leroy Macklin.

Outstanding individual performances easily compensate for the team's won-lost record, showing wins only over East Peoria and Limestone.

Gurney Masters, one of the best point-winners for the wrestling team, demonstrates his "pinning" technique.

Baseball

LITTLE GIANTS COP DISTRICT MEET SCORING 43 RUNS IN TWO GAMES FOR BEST OUTPUT OF SEASON

The dugout is where the team hangs out. Progress of the game can be watched closely. Apt comments by the coach are passed along to members of the team.

Hammering out a successful season of 9 wins and 6 losses, the Little Giants baseball squad won the District Tournament clobbering Rushville 13-1 in the final game. Scoring 21 runs against Valley and 22 against Elmwood the team showed great hitting power in these two contests. They also knocked off two other teams to get to the finals.

Advancing to the Sectional tournament and meeting Limestone in first round play they were stopped cold 10-1. Highlight of the season was a doubleheader win over the Streaks from Galesburg, 7-1, 12-6. In a close contest with East Peoria the Little Giants played another good game only to lose 2-1. Tom Flynn pitched a brilliant four-hitter against Peoria Central but lost to the Lions on five errors committed by his teammates. Opening season with Pekin the Little Giants lost 5-1 but rebounded to a 6-2 victory over the Farmington Farmers.

Intramurals

Because of the excellent turnout of boys for the Intramural Basketball Program, a third league was added to accommodate all the players.

The new league, the Midwest, consisted of players drafted from the other two leagues, forming a four-team league. Still dominating student interest were the usual American and National leagues. The Midwest League, playing on Wednesday evenings, was captained by Carl Jacobs (Tappet Tinkers), Tim Drummond (Delagoes), Rex Jett (Rockets), and Bill Colvin (Bears). The National League was captained by Lance Lindeen (Illini), Tom Jones (Wildcats), Chet Carrara (Knickerbockers), and Stan Miller (Olympians). The Senior loop was captained by Jim Yerbic (Cats), Steve Kennedy (Celtics), Max Latimer (Pistons), and Mike Groppel (Lakers). There were many outstanding performances. The Knickerbockers won the championship by defeating the Celtics 56-40. Bob Little scored the highest point total of the year (111 points), and the team he played on (Bears) had a perfect record of 9 wins and no losses.

Intramural Bowling also had a very successful season, meeting at the Canton Works Bowling alleys every Thursday during the winter months. New boys were welcomed and former boys were expected to return.

The Intramural Program was again under the direction of Mr. Metzger, and the referees, Harry Smith and Chester Prosser, are to be thanked for their fine work throughout the year.

Grand Champions of the intramural basketball leagues were the Knickerbockers of the "National" League: (front) Terry Elliott, Bill Kuchan, Wayne White; (back) Dick Ridle, Captain Chet Carrara, Dave Stanfel.

- Gary -

To one of the sweetest and (also) handsomest boys that I know!

I think that you have done a lot for our Junior class and everyone is grateful for your effort and your time. I sure hope that next year that you will be as nice and as lovable as you are now. Gary, I think the world of you and I always will.

Please remember me as one of your <sup>(best)</sup> buddies.

Love & Luck

Gary - It is it hard to find a place to write! First, I'll just skip all the nicies because it seems everyone else hates said them for me. Dub.

Honestly Gary - you are just tops.

Congratulations for everything you have obtained this year - you really deserve it. Please don't ever change.

Good luck always - as if you'll need it.

Pete
 one of the best friends
 a guy could ever have.
 I have fully enjoyed being around you this year. Best of luck in everything & may we have as much fun next year as we did this year.

Best of luck
 Your friend

Gary -
 To a wonderful guy who captured my friendship during our "cute" chem experiments!
 I'll never forget your wonderful friendly way and how you listened to my troubles (although they aren't straightened out) and you don't know how much those few minutes meant to me!

- Gary -

I think you're one of the most wonderful boys I've ever met or hope to meet. Don't forget all the fun we've had and especially, don't forget me! You've got a lot of swell friends and (also) you've got what it takes to be tops. Always stay this way and never change. Everyone has written what I wanted to, so when you read theirs think of me. You've really had a lot of luck in the past, I wish you as much and more in the future. I love my cross.

Love & Stuff

Linda

P.S. I wanted to write more but I didn't have any room. Add a page and I'll write what I wanted to.

Gary -

I really have a lot to say to you and no time, space, or words to express
myself!

Please forgive me forgive me because of all my idiosyncrasies and take care of your sweet handsome baby.

Cuz-

Good luck in everything you do. (of course you don't need it.)

We have been officer and committed members on practically every committee there has been.

We have had loads and loads of fun together. Remember the day we went fishing - (and fell in) Loads of luck with your one and only - Linda. Don't you ever forget me and I know we'll be friends for ages and ages.

Lots of luck in everything your cuz -
